Back into the wild

Dave Houghton of the AfriCat Foundation yesterday led off a group of four of the 17 captive cheetahs that were part of the foundation's project to release them into the wild at their nature reserve south of Otjiwarongo at Okonjima Lodge. A group of international tourists and journalists witnessed the event. AfriCat in May this year released four wild dogs that were in captivity into a new 16 000-hectares private nature reserve.
